

Crawl and analyze these reference websites for structure, UX flow, SEO patterns, messaging hierarchy, visual direction, and conversion mechanics:

1. <https://www.fundwithprime.com/>
2. <https://www.primecapitalpartners.org/get-funded>
3. <https://www.statenislandwashkings.com/>

Important: Do NOT copy text, branding, design, images, layouts, or code directly. Use them only as reference for what is working.

Project: Built Together Funding Corp

Goal:

Build a high-converting, mobile-first website and application funnel for a funding company focused on service/trade businesses.

Target audience:

Service and trade businesses doing roughly $100k–$1.5M+ annually, especially roofers, exterior cleaners, landscapers, construction companies, builders, and operators who need capital to increase capacity.

Core positioning:

Built Together Funding helps service businesses scale capacity using capital only when it actually increases profit.

The brand should feel like a hybrid of:

- High-converting MCA funding funnel
- Premium operator-led service business brand
- Rugged, trustworthy, contractor-focused growth partner

Reference analysis goals:

From Prime/Fund websites, extract:

- Funnel simplicity
- CTA placement
- Application flow
- Funding language structure
- Eligibility presentation
- Trust-building sections
- Fast funding positioning

From Staten Island Wash Kings, extract:

- Premium local service feel

- Strong trust/authority layout
- Bold service-business branding
- Mobile-first section flow
- Clean CTA-driven UX

Built Together Funding must NOT feel like a generic MCA company. It should feel operator-led, selective, and built for serious service businesses.

Website must include:

1. Hero section
2. Founder/operator story
3. Who we help
4. What funding is used for
5. Qualification CTA
6. Interactive application funnel
7. Process section
8. Trust/authority section
9. FAQ
10. Final CTA

Application funnel:

Make the application feel interactive, not like a boring form.

Include:

- Step-by-step questions
- Progress bar
- Light “game-module” feel
- Loading screen with hands/hammer/building animation
- Text like “Reviewing your information...” or “Checking if you qualify...”

Important compliance note:

The “approval” or “qualification” screen should NOT imply guaranteed funding approval. It only means they passed basic criteria to get on a funding call.

Lead flow:

Ad → Landing page → Interactive application → Pre-qualification → Automated SMS/email confirmation → Internal notification → Funding call → Decision/funding options.

Collect:

- Business type

- Monthly revenue
- Time in business
- Funding amount needed
- Intended use of funds
- Current capacity constraint
- Whether they are booked out, turning down work, or trying to add equipment/crew/ad spend
- Contact info

Core message:

“We help service businesses scale capacity using capital — only when it actually increases profit.”

Tone:

Direct, confident, premium, operator-led, not corporate, not spammy, not generic funding language.

Avoid:

- Copying references directly
- Generic “get funded fast” spam feel
- Overly corporate finance tone
- Promising guaranteed approvals
- Attracting startups or unqualified beginners

Output:

Create a full website structure, homepage copy, funnel flow, component plan, SEO suggestions, and implementation-ready design direction for Cursor.